District Governor's Message

By KOBY RICKERTSEN
Rotary 5630 District Governor

HAPPY BIRTHDAY ROTARY!!!! Wow, it's hard to believe that Rotary Clubs have been making an impact in our communities and our world for 110 years. February 23, 2015 marks the birth of Rotary International and this year is a marquee moment for the worlds first and largest service organization.

For me it has been an honor to be a small part of this amazing organization. So much rich history we had over the years. I think that it is fitting that we also celebrate World Understanding Month along with the birth of Rotary. I think it is interesting that it is named World Understanding instead of something like

"World Service". It is so important that we not only take time to understand the world that we live in and all the difference throughout, but also to understand our part in it.

Eradicating Polio from our world has been a paramount mission of Rotary for a good chunk of it's history. We can now see the finish line on this goal and within the next few years Rotary is going to be able to throw a giant party along with our global partners celebrating the news that no more children will ever have to live with this horrific disease! We have so much to celebrate as we look into the future, and I for one am excited to be a part of such awesome-ness!

However, with all the things that we have to celebrate we must continue to strive for excellence. I believe that central and western Nebraska has some of the hardest working people in the world. We are achievers by nature and that is why our District leadership team had no problem setting some of the loftiest goals in our districts history. I will be honest, we are asking a lot this year, but I know that my fellow Husker fans will not let me down. Every club that I visited has done amazing things in their communities and I know that together we can reach our goals and have a celebration May 29th and 30th in Gothenburg to celebrate our success!!!

As we start February thinking of the kind of cake we should get for our clubs the week of February 23rd to celebrate 110 years, and we reflect on our world and it's needs. Let's take some time to research all the things that Rotary has done for our country and our world and remember on February 23 that this entire movement started with 4 passionate guys in a law office in Chicago, IL. No club is too small to achieve greatness. We only need to set high goals and have the mindset that we cannot fail! In the words of General

George S. Patton "If you tell people where to go, but not how to get there, you will be amazed at the results." We know where we want to go my friends, my honest hope is that you all think of fun and exciting different ways to help us get there. #WeAreRotary!!!

Yours in Service,

Koby

Host Clubs Sought for 2015-16 Rotary Exchange Students

The Rotary District 5630 Youth Exchange Committee is seeking host clubs for exchange students in the 2015-16 year. The Youth Exchange Committee has agreed to accept four in-bound students. Host clubs provide a monthly stipend for their student, find three host families, provide a club counselor for the student as well as a local coordinator to oversee the program on the club level.

Host clubs help the student adjust to life in Nebraska, provide transportation to district events and invite the student to be a part of their Rotary club. Adult volunteers working closely with the student must agree to have a criminal background check conducted, provide two references and participate in mandatory training prior to the student's arrival in August.

Clubs should contact District Youth Exchange Committee Chair Ronna Morse before March 1 if they are interested in hosting a student in 2015-16 or if they have questions about the youth exchange. She can be reached at ryechair@5630rye.org or 402-322-0404.

"You get a strange feeling when you're about to leave a place, like you'll not only miss the people you love but you'll miss the person you are now at this time and place because you never be this way ever again."

Paul Alexander

DALLAS (AP) - As a tow-headed 6-year-old, Paul Alexander took apart everything, including his mother's blender, simply to understand how it worked. His father would be close behind, putting the pieces back together.

Alexander didn't know at that time there would be a day he wouldn't be able to take things apart, wouldn't be able to run around in the mud, or do other rambunctious activities the average 6-year-old could do. Paralytic polio would place him in an iron lung, a machine that forces air into his lungs with help from a pressurized system, about a week after he had checked into a Dallas hospital in 1952 and shortly after he was prematurely pronounced dead.

Now Alexander, who is in his late 60s, is one of 10 people in the world who still live in an iron lung. He contracted the deadly illness toward the end of a major United States polio outbreak, and said his survival into his 60s wouldn't have been possible without the good hearts and grace of others like those in the Waxahachie Rotary Club. The Rotarians spent a recent Saturday morning building a ramp to help Alexander transport his 1,200-pound lung to and from the hospital more easily. ~READ MORE~

District 5630 Moves Forward with e-Club Development

by Dian Edwards, Membership Extension Chair

Mission Statement of the Rotary District 5630 e-Club of the Midwest

"To provide a virtual District 5630 Rotary Club, enabled and sustained through technology, that accommodates schedules of mobile professionals, the limitations of homebound Rotarians, provides outreach to rural communities, and strengthens global connections in support of Rotary Projects through its Avenues of Service."

Please check out the District 5630 e-Club web site that has been established to host the Rotary e-Club of the Midwest, www.erotarymidwest.com.

Proposed President Timothy Loewenstein, timothy@0000.pro, and Proposed President-Elect Clint Haynes, chaynes@virsage.com, are working with a special ad hoc committee that has been formed to assist with the development and implementation of the club. Todd Spellman, taspell99@gmail.com, has been appointed to be the Special Representative for the Kearney Dawn Sponsor Club.

Our District e-Club is in the process of accepting qualifying member applications in support of our formal charter application. You can help us to reach our goal of a minimum of 30 charter members. The charter member application fee is $15. Please send us names and contact information for friends, family, and others who you would recommend to be a part of the Wide World of Rotary! We will take it from there.

Gothenburg Interact

The seniors of the Gothenburg Interact club are selling Yuda Bands! We are working with the Yuda Band organization to raise scholarship money for two students in Guatemala to go to school. The bracelets are hand-made in Guatemala and there is not one exactly the same as another. They are only $7 and we are hoping to sell 350 of them so that we can pay for a year of schooling for both students. We will be selling these bracelets from January 28th to February 11th at home basketball games and over the High School lunch hour.

For more information on how you can purchase your Yuda Band contact Shelby Loostrom 15loostrom@gothenburgswedes.org of GHS Interact.

Polio Update

EVEN ISIS KNOWS POLIO IS BAD

Even though the Islamic State (IS) has imposed many restrictions on Syrians and Iraqis in the territories currently under their control, polio vaccination has resumed and vaccination rates are high.

Even ISIS supports getting kids vaccinated

Max Fisher recently reported in VOX about the surprising success of polio vaccination:

For all of the medieval practices that ISIS imposes on the Syrians and Iraqis living under its rule, there is one area where the terrorist group has so far been tolerant: vaccines.

"An unexpected success of the polio immunization campaigns in Syria and Iraq has been the access granted to vaccinators in territory controlled by the militant group calling itself the Islamic State," according to the Integrated Regional Information Networks (IRIN), a humanitarian news service formerly part of the UN.

The UN has called the polio immunization campaign in Syria — which had an outbreak in 2013 — a significant success. While it's possible the disease could come back, 8,500 health workers got as close as they could to immunizing everyone, especially children.

According to workers with the anti-polio campaign, ISIS allowed vaccinators even into areas where they had forbidden other humanitarian. Partly this was presumably in deference to local Syrians and Iraqis who want the vaccine, but also out of simple understanding that polio is bad and vaccines are good.

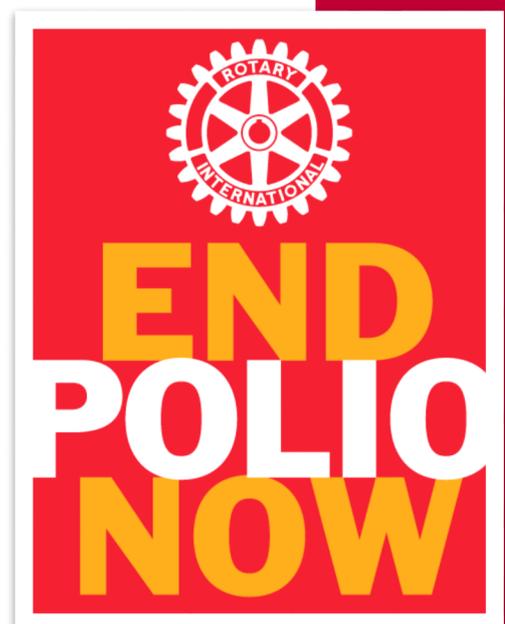

The head of an NGO that runs the vaccines recounted to IRIN that they reached out to ISIS: "We told them, 'This polio — it doesn't care about lines. It goes cross-line and cross-border as it wants.'" The Washington Post reported in June that ISIS members had in some cases gotten their own children vaccinated, or had helped facilitate safe passage.

On the narrow issue of vaccination, this puts ISIS ahead of some Americans who oppose vaccination for children. American anti-vaccination proponents have focused on the MMR (Measles, Mumps, and Rubella) vaccine, though, rather than polio, after a now-retracted study with false data, published in 1998, suggested a connection to autism. Still, polio has come up; Ron Paul, in making the case that it was okay for some parents to refuse vaccines, said in 2007, "If you didn't take the vaccine for polio, you're not a danger to me. You're a danger to yourself."

As Sarah Kliff put it, writing in response to Chris Christie's characterization of vaccination as a personal choice, "Vaccination is not a personal decision. It has the potential to affect hundreds, maybe thousands, of other people."

ISIS is perhaps the cruelest, most barbaric group on earth today. It does many things that are far worse than denying vaccines to children. But that makes it all the more striking that even ISIS sees the value of immunizing children against contagious diseases.

ISIS's pro-vaccine stance is particularly striking given that other Islamist extremists, such as the Pakistani Taliban, have opposed vaccines, calling them a "conspiracy of Jews and Christians to make Muslims impotent and stunt the growth of Muslims."
